

Water Pressure Reduction Causes Concern in R.C.

Public concern over reduced water pressure in the downtown area of Redwood City was expressed today by business people and home-owners, who faced the inconvenience of lack of water supply and an increased fire hazard.

There was insufficient pressure at the Sequoia Theater Tuesday, it was reported, to get water to its second floor drinking fountain. One woman reported failure to get enough water to take a bath.

Numerous complaints were voiced to the Redwood City Water and Fire Depts.

City Mgr. Robert W. Mead declared that increased use in many outlets during the hot weather had reduced the water pressure. He said, however, that protection from fire need not be feared as pressure for fire fighting comes from pressure-building fire equipment.

Mead explained that pressure in the central supply is reduced as each outlet uses water and that increased use reduces the normal 80-pound pressure.

"An administrative officer, with the fire chief (Mark E. Ryan), I feel the responsibility of protecting the city," Mead said, "but am not unduly concerned since the situation can be overcome in case of fire."

As a growing community, Redwood City may expect larger mains in the future, he said, but the size of the main does not create the pressure with which to halt fires.

Pvt. Alan C. Edwards Receives Purple Heart

Marine Pvt. Alan C. Edwards of Woodside was awarded the Purple Heart Medal in one of the largest mass presentations ever held in the Pacific.

The medal, presented by Vice Adm. John H. Towers, was given for wounds suffered in the two Jima battles.

Disclaim Gambling

Dist. Atty. Gilbert Ferrell and Sheriff James J. McGrath today continued to disclaim knowledge of gambling in San Mateo County, although the Willow Tree Club in Colma, the Out of Town Club at Brisbane, and other clubs were reported in full operation.

Ferrell told newsmen, "I'm going to see what's doing. It's the usual policy to let the sheriff's office and police departments enforce the law, but this office has the right to butt into the situation if it is as represented."

McGrath stated, "I've had no complaints personally, but I'm making a thorough checkup of the situation." He admitted Chinese gambling places may have relocated in Bayshore City, but said the Willow Tree Club is closed. He has not yet had a complete report on the Out of Town Club, he added.

The navy pilots will use the landing strip in connection with target towing practice and anti-aircraft practice squadrons.

New Highway Co-operation Sought Here

San Mateo County supervisors moved toward co-operation with supervisors from Santa Clara County in planning a third Peninsula through highway Tuesday when the San Mateo group set forth plans for a two-county meeting in the near future.

The San Mateo County supervisors, acting upon a request from Fred Drake of San Carlos agreed to invite the neighboring county's supervisors to a discussion of the proposed Junipero Serra extension.

Drake, chairman of the San Carlos Planning Commission, represented all Peninsula cities except Menlo Park at today's board meeting.

Declaring extension of Junipero Serra is "bound to come," Drake presented an alternative route to the state-proposed highway which would closely follow Alameda de las Pulgas.

Drake's proposed roadway is designed to bypass the cities and is located further west.

Stating there was much interest in the proposed extension on the part of Santa Clara County residents, Drake said he believed the entire boards should work together, rather than through committees.

He criticized the location of the state proposed roadway, declaring it "would have wrecked our cities" by cutting through, rather than bypassing Peninsula cities.

Drake concluded by pleading for expediting the determination of the Junipero Serra route.

Presented to the supervisors for their adoption were resolutions setting up an assessment district in the new Redwood Village subdivision south of Redwood City.

The $1,500,000 subdivision is the proposed site of 247 homes and is located between Douglas Ave. and Charter St. and fronting on Midfield Rd. south of Redwood City.

Plans for the subdivision also call for the erection of a business district.

A similar request from the Capuchino Golf Course Subdivision 2 was also submitted to the supervisors for their acceptance.

County Seeks New Employees

Applicants for newly-created jobs with San Mateo County are being sought by Owen M. Broyles, personnel officer and secretary, it was announced today.

The county is in need of typists, stenographers, clerks, nurses and institutional help, he declared. Minimum pay for such work is $130 a month and room and board is supplied in connection with many of the institutional jobs.

Eight positions, including a veterans' service officer, ambulance driver-attendant, supervisor of elections and registration, and chief of communicable diseases, will be open July 1.

Broyles asked possible applicants to write or call the civil service commission in the court house building, Redwood City.

Granger Renews Attack on Mead; Fletcher Absent

Councilmen deadlocked Monday night on the Redwood City salary ordinance to the 1945-46 budget which would provide a 10 per cent salary increase for all city employees following heated word-hurling by Councilman Floyd D. Granger, directed at City Mgr. Robert W. Mead.

"The city manager is not qualified for the increase in salary and I am not willing to vote for the ordinance which does not state specifically the number of employees in each department," Granger bluntly announced.

After 30 minutes of open conflict, motion to approve the salary ordinance, introduced by Councilman Harold F. Anderson and seconded by Carl Britschgi, was voted. Anderson, Britschgi, and Chester C. Armstrong voted yes; Granger, Councilman George McNulty and Mayor W. W. Hilton, no.

Councilman Evans A. Fletcher, who was absent last night, had been granted permission to leave the state for two weeks at the June 4 council meeting. In a caucus meeting held recently, Fletcher voted to approve the salary ordinance and the motion carried 4-3.

"I will not vote for the ordinance to boost the city manager's salary although I feel the other city employees' salaries should be raised," Granger stated. "The city manager is still living in Palo Alto in direct violation of the city charter which provides that city employees should move immediately to Redwood City."

Mead maintains a residence at 1004 Hopkins Ave., although his home is still in Palo Alto.

"Have you ever slept at this Redwood City address?" Granger flashed.

"Yes," Mead replied.

"How many times, more than four times a week?" Granger hurled.

"No," Mead answered.

At this point, City Atty. Paul A. McCarthy explained that a person may sleep at a residence only one night a week if he signifies intention of regarding that as his residence.

Armstrong explained that Mead's increase to $7200 from $6600 was proportionally less than any of the other proposed increases and that he thought Mead was entitled to the increase on the basis of service rendered.

In replying to Granger's charge that the salary ordinance does not provide for a breakdown of the number of employees in each department, Councilman Anderson said that the city manager should have some leeway and flexibility with employees.

"Personally I think Mead is doing a good job and I'm getting sick and tired of these picaresque details," Anderson stated. "It's getting to the point where the council spends hours deciding what department will have how much toilet paper and hand lotion."

"I can't see any difference between a city council and the governing board of a corporation. It is the city manager's job to go into working details and not ours," Anderson added.

Mayor Hilton remarked that he thought the city manager's proposed salary was reasonable and that he would vote for the ordinance if Mead's increase was eliminated.

Despite Mead's assurance that he would include the number of employees in each department, Granger refused to concede the point and the ordinance was put on the agenda for the city council meeting of July 2.

Delmer Filley Gathers Souvenirs

When Delmer Filley, 316 Heller St., dropped in to see his mother, Mrs. Mae Monroe, Monday afternoon, he had something unusual in the way of a souvenir from the Pacific.

Second Steward Filley made his last trip with the Army Transport Service to the Pacific he received in Manila, a copy of the first liberation paper published in the Philippines. Called "Free Philippines," the quarter-size, four column paper was filled with news of the European war, and a warning that beginning the next day traffic would go on the right side of the street. It was issued Mar. 23.

Both going and returning from this trip through the Solomons, New Guinea, Philippines, Hawaii, and as far north as Lingayen Gulf, Filley met his brother, Joseph Hall, also of Redwood City, when he landed in New Guinea. Hall is with the merchant marine.

Filley, a graduate of Sequoia High School, has been honorably discharged from the army previous to joining the crew of the Army Transport Service.

Wastepaper Drive Starts Tomorrow

Paper collections for the wastepaper drive sponsored by the American Legion, Post 105, will begin tomorrow afternoon and continue Sunday, according to James Whitehead, commander.

To speed supplies of packing material to the Japanese war, any kind of wastepaper and especially magazines will be sought, according to the commander.

The post asks that bundles be tied securely and left on the platform of the Southern Pacific freight depot anytime this week.

Whitehead asked business firms or individuals who will be able to lend the Legion a truck to make the collections, to call him at RC 672 or William Galloway at RC 2180.

Judges Name Prize Winners In Children's Parade Here

Despite the hot weather, many of Redwood City's young citizens turned out on Saturday for the children's parade and pet show, which was held in conjunction with the Foley and Burk Show under the auspices of the Tribune, the Veterans of Foreign Wars and the Redwood City Recreation Dept.

Costumes of all varieties were represented, many elaborate and many humorous. Bicycles were decked with colored crepe paper and some of the youngsters carried their pets in boxes on the handlebars, while others led them on a leash.

Some of the smaller kiddies rode in miniature dog carts. Prizes for the pets were awarded to John O'Brien, first; Bob Mohun, second; and Bill Gregory, third.

Suzanne Hall and Billy Stymest tied for first place for the best costume. Other ties in the costume class were David, Keith and Louise Snites, tied for second; and Robert Smith and Marilyn Thorup, tied for third.

First place for the floats was awarded to Harry Gunderson, Ralph Ledesma, Cuddles Days and Jimmy Dring. Second place went to Charles Iretton and third place winners were Elizabeth Cloud, Sally Bahman and Meribah Cloud. Stan Raean won first place for the best decorated bicycle, Maryl Rae Raean, second; and Jacquelin Dicherá, Shirley Dichera and John Schmidt, third.

County Clerk Bill Augustus, was chairman of the parade, assisted by Curt Butties, Lee Alderman and Alfred (Red) Morton.

Harold Blackburn Receives Cluster

Second Lt. Harold Blackburn, son of Mrs. Anna M. Blackburn, 112 Dumbarton Ave., has received an Oak Leaf Cluster for his Air Medal for meritorious achievement in aerial combat, according to an Eighth Air Force release.

Lieutenant Blackburn made 18 daylight bombings against the Nazis, with the veteran 35th Bombardment Group.

While pounding oil refineries in the Hamburg area his group was attacked by enemy jet-propelled fighters which attempted to attack one element of the formation but quickly fled from the outburst of fire from the Fortress gunners.

Lieutenant Blackburn arrived in the European area in March as a pilot.

Edward C. Davenport Member Of Citation-Winning Unit

Pvt. Edward C. Davenport of Redwood City is a member of the Third Battalion, 351st Infantry Regiment, which recently was awarded a War Department Distinguished Unit Citation for a four-day battle which resulted in the capture of Laticio during the Fifth Army drive to the Arno River last July.

Award of the citation to the unit in which Davenport is a mortar gunner, was learned here today in a dispatch which told how the 38th "Blue Devil" Division unit withstood three savage counterattacks before launching its successful offensive July 13.

Announced by Brig. Gen. Paul W. Endall, division commander, the official citation stated that "during the attack on strongly fortified German positions in the vicinity of Laticio, the Third Battalion occupied an advanced position devoid of cover and exposed to enemy fire from both flanks and for three days frustrated all enemy efforts to defend the town and surrounding strategic positions.

"On the fourth day, the battalion seized an opportunity and launched a night attack and penetrated the German stronghold from the flanks and rear."

The timely capture of this key enemy defensive position compelled the "krants" to abandon a carefully prepared, strongly defended line and opened the route of advance to the Arno River.

Davenport's wife, Marian, resides at 128 Franklin St., Redwood City.

Electric Octopus
ADEQUATE WIRING

You have seen an Electric Octopus or perhaps you even have one in your own home. It is a make-shift electric service by using a "clumsy" triple plug and running a clock, radio and lamp all from one electric outlet. The octopus outlet is a sure sign of house wiring that is lacking in enough circuits or outlets in the right places for modern and convenient service. So look ahead...in your present home or the new home you plan to build. Plan for adequate wiring to run all of your electric appliances with full power and at lowest cost. Put adequate wiring down as a first MUST in your 194X home plans. You'll find it saves more money than it costs.

Under the Courthouse Dome

By Ray Spangler

This department is a couple of innings late in its applause for the sheriff's office.

The fact that the sheriff is active in suppressing book-makers in this vicinity has not escaped notice. There is some complaint that he is allowing gambling activities to proceed unchecked in certain other areas, but I suspect that if those areas make sufficient complaint the sheriff will do something.

SHERIFF

Hereabouts it has been made known that the various games of chance and illegal gambling on horses are frowned upon within the city limits of Redwood City. There has been an exodus of sorts to other areas.

One elaborately furnished gambling room nearby has never opened for business according to the best information available to me. Another operator was warned not to open up. He did. He was judged.

One of the larger fry in the gambling pan was hustled before the authorities and released, but the event caused him sufficient concern to weigh carefully his future operations in this area. Perhaps he, too, can be persuaded to move.

W. Earl Whitaker, principal of Lincoln School, will be campaign manager of the Community Chest Drive for Redwood City, it was announced today by the executive campaign committee, of which S. D. Herkimer is chairman.

Try It Out

While used cooking fat doesn't have to be clean and odorless, it should be free from chunks of meat, pieces of bone and other non-fat material, points out War Food Administration.

Bones, chunks of meat and gristle should be tried out, and the resultant fat added to the salvage container. Every single drop is precious. More used fat will be needed in 1945 than ever before, because war and civilian demands are expected to soar far above 1944, while supply from domestic oilseed crops and imports has decreased.

THE PROWLER—By Dallas E. Wood

FROM A FRIEND IN England comes this report, given in a personal letter, on the Londoners' start toward rehabilitation of their city:

"With peace in Europe, England is shedding her armor and all the front-line defense equipment made necessary by Nazi V-weapon attacks. The concrete blast walls which are to be found protecting the doorways of hotels and other buildings are being chipped away as fast as workmen can be found to do the job.

"The netting which covered all but a tiny triangular peephole on the windows of buses and underground trains is slowly disappearing. To have a clear view again gives one the feeling that the buses and subway cars are new. The purpose of the netting was to keep glass from shattering into bits if a bomb hit nearby, but it certainly made it difficult for one to locate oneself, particularly in a black-out. It was like trying to see while blindfolded.

"PROBABLY THE BUSIEST men in England are the glaziers, for while bombs would knock down every house in the immediate vicinity of where they fell, they sometimes would break glass in windows half a mile away. So there are few houses in London which boast completely intact panes of glass. I think it will take months before the task of replacing with glass the makeshift cardboard and thick paper panes can be completed.

"THE FIRE SERVICE people who did such a gallant job during the days of the Blitz are now engaged in pumping out water from the big static tanks which are to be found all over London, and which assured that even if the water system were to be knocked out, water would be available for fire-fighting. The basements of some bombed-out buildings were also used as static tanks, and these pools are now being emptied, much to the interest of the sidewalk spectators who are just as curious as the corresponding onlookers in our own country.

"ALTHOUGH THOUSANDS of 'Yanks' as the English call us, despite protests of service men from the southern states, are leaving daily for the United States, London continues to be crowded with GIs, most of whom are on leave prior to embarkation. Many of the service men of all nationalities now to be seen on London streets are released prisoners of war. Those we see look lean and tanned. The shocking cases of half-starved men are still in hospitals. "Many of the released British and Aussie prisoners are full of praise for the generous treatment given them by the United States troops who rescued them. A number of Aussies have stopped me on the street to say how grateful they were to the Yanks, even though our boys made many of the prisoners sick by plying the underfed men with candy and luxuries and all the food they could eat. One Aussie said that he was ill for days after the Yanks had given him his first dinner after being released, but that it was worth it.

"PEACE HAS MADE BUT little difference to the British civilian other than giving him freedom from bombing.

"The food ration has been reduced, rather than increased, although, from press reports and letters from home, I guess we in England can expect little sympathy on that score. You still have to stand in line here to buy newspapers and to get onto buses, in fact to do almost everything. The British 'queue up' with the patience born of long practice and do not seem to mind it.

"A little more gasoline is now allowed to civilian drivers for private motoring, but to date it has had no visible effect on motor traffic in London, which is still composed primarily of buses, taxis and service vehicles.

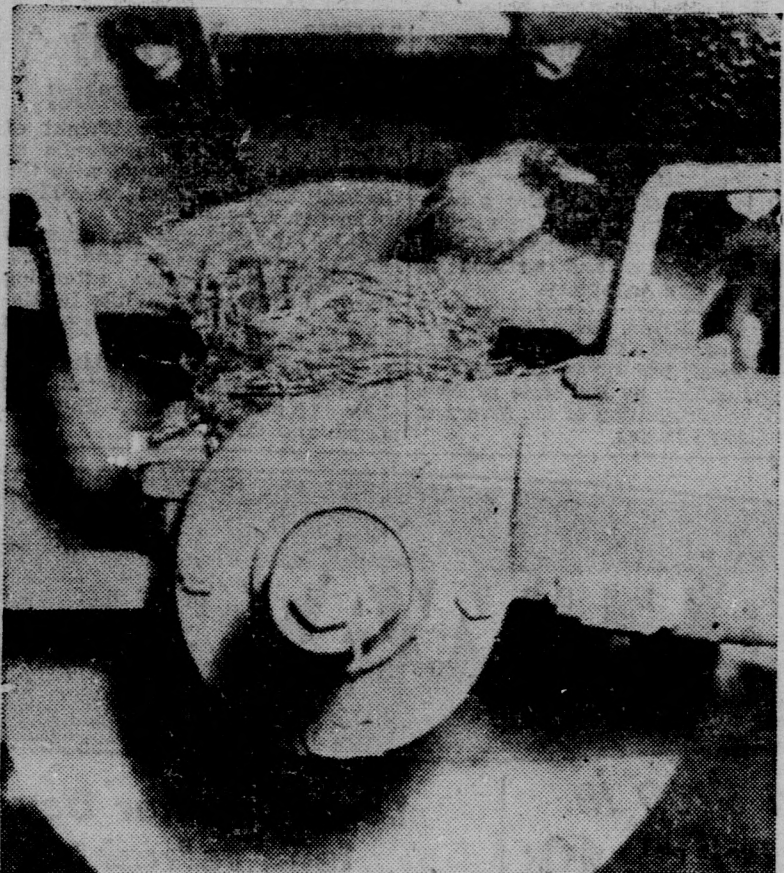

"THERE IS A TERRIFIC housing shortage in London, although again I guess that England will get little sympathy from Peninsulans. Evacuees are now permitted to return to London, and the increase in the number of children is quite noticeable. During the days when V-1 and V-2 bombs were coming over, we saw very few children here. London then was really a city of adults, and largely adults in uniform."

Mark Twain has such a horror of losing manuscripts that he drew a chalk line on the floor around his desk and the maid was forbidden to cross the line even to dust.

The military requirements for meat amount to about 24 per cent of the available supply this year in comparison to 16 per cent last year.

Great Britain and Russia, the two largest claimants of meat under Lend-Lease, received together one pound out of every 10 produced in the United States last year.

The ancient Greeks had an approximately correct idea of the size of the earth, and it is believed they had computed circumference within less than five per cent of error by 150 B. C.

A faithful lady robin with an uncanny ken of railroadings is perched near her nest on an airbrake cylinder, a few inches below the flooring of a railroad coach. Each day the nest travels 72 miles from Chicago to Barrington, Ill., and Mrs. Robin, who never travels with the nest, is on hand to greet the two eggs she laid two weeks ago when they return. Only Home Gardener Can Enjoy Peas at Their Best

Peas are a luxury crop in the Victory garden. Served garden-fresh, within half an hour after picking, they have tenderness and flavor which only the home gardener can enjoy, because they lose it so rapidly.

Like sweet corn, their sugar changes to starch rapidly after picking. For the space occupied, they yield a relatively small crop, because only the seeds of the plant are eaten. Care should be taken to get the most out of the space used, where garden space is limited.

Where spring comes late, followed quickly by hot weather, only one crop of peas can be depended on, and this should be sown as soon as the soil is prepared. The best way to prolong the harvest is to sow at the same time an early and a midseason variety, plus a late variety in sections where there is time for it to mature before hot weather.

Seeds should be sown two inches deep and not closer than an inch apart in a single row, and double rows should have six inches between them. Even dwarf peas benefit by having support, so brush or low fencing is often set between double rows for the vines to climb. The semi-tall and tall varieties require support.

Peas have a short harvest, and quickly lose quality when past their prime. They should be harvested before the pods begin to turn yellow. If there are too many for the table, the surplus should be canned while at their best rather than allowing them to lose quality.

In new gardens it will pay to inoculate the seed with a culture which seedsmen supply for the purpose, containing nitrogen-fixing bacteria. The soil should be well fertilized with a balanced plant food, at the rate of a pint for a twenty-five foot row.

J-M Smokestack By Jim Asbestos

There'll be a heck of a lot of building after the war. Then our jobs right here with J-M ought to be pretty hunky-dory.

We're Betting on Building
Johns-Manville won't have to shut down to change machinery after the war.

When war came, we did not have to change machinery. We changed customers. Uncle Sam had to have the same things we had been making for Uncle John Public, and he needed about twice as much of 'em.

So folks pretty surely won't get out on a post-war limb by keeping or taking a job with J-M.

People may or may not buy luxury products after the war, but it's a cinch that millions of them will build or repair homes and business structures.

And that's J-M all over! Our middle name is building materials.

$14 Million to Expand With
J-M has set aside a fund of over 14 million dollars to replace worn equipment and enlarge and improve factory and mine facilities for post-war days.

We've had engineers and scientists working on new and improved products and processes.

We'll go strong, we think, when peace comes. And we hope to contribute more than ever to the welfare of this community.

-Jim Asbestos
JOHNS-MANVILLE
P.S. But it isn't over yet. A lot of Japs will have to commit suicide before they'll know they're licked.
